24/7 Emergency Care

Dr. Julie Molitoris attended Purdue University where she received an undergraduate degree in biology, followed by a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree. After graduation, Dr. Molitoris completed a one-year small animal rotating internship in Albuquerque, New Mexico. Following her internship, she found her way back to family in Indianapolis, IN where she worked in a 24-hour small animal emergency and general practice clinic. While in Indianapolis, she spent the first few years working emergency medicine, followed by a focus on general practice while serving as the medical director of the clinic. Dr. Molitoris moved to Denver in 2016 to start working at AESC as an emergency clinician.

She is excited to be in Colorado where she can spend time with her dog, Q, exploring the mountains and the city of Denver, while her lazy cat, Briq, sleeps in the Colorado sun.
